From the visionary musician, antiquarian and musicologist Julian Cope, comes an alternative history of the last six decades of popular music. Eschewing the usual criteria of chart success or acknowledged influence, the Cependium - a collection of album reviews and themed track samplers - takes energy, originality and heaviness as its bearings. The result is a feast of obscure and neglected masterworks that together form a surprising but entirely credible new tradition.

Cult singer and songwriter Julian Cope's Cependium is a wonderful tribute to the misfits, outsiders and head-cases who have marked music's most magnificent margins. While heavyweights such as Miles Davis and Black Sabbath are loudly hymned, so are 'underpraised' artists such as the Mops and Jex Thoth.

Cependium: Amazon.co.uk: Cope, Julian: Books

Julian paints this band as disciples of the Velvet, and the influence is obvious, but my other song of theirs is decidedly more Troggs, so maybe they were just into their own ideal of late-60's garage rock. Helicopter by Sand is another long, trippy jam, but is much more experimental, darker, and harder edged than the previous two thus far.
